FEDERAL ELECTION
COMMISSION
OFFICE OF GENERAL COUNSEL

December 9, 2004

Office of the General Counsel

Washington, DC 20463

Re: MUR 5564
Tony Knowles for U.S. Senate and Leslie Ridle as treasurer

Dear Mr. Norton:

On behalf of Tony Knowles for U.S. Senate (the "Knowles campaign") and Leslie Ridle, as treasurer (collectively, "Respondents"), we submit this letter in response to the complaint filed by Wiley Brooks, dated October 3, 2004, alleging that the Knowles campaign accepted unlawful in-kind contributions from the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee ("DSCC") and the Alaska Democratic Party ("ADP") in violation of the Federal Election Campaign Act (the "Act").

Contrary to the complainant's assertions, the Knowles campaign received no unlawful in-kind contributions from either the DSCC or the ADP. As is demonstrated below, the complainant's allegations are without merit; accordingly, the Commission should decline to take further action and should dismiss the complaint without delay.

DISCUSSION

A. The Knowles Campaign Did Not Receive Unlawful In-Kind Contributions from the Alaska Democratic Party.

The complainant's first allegation is that the Knowles campaign received unlawful in-kind contributions from the ADP because the ADP's offices and staff, while funded entirely by the ADP and "not the Knowles campaign," Compl. at 2, operated solely for the Knowles campaign's benefit. As is discussed below, this conclusion is entirely incorrect. First, the ADP operated to elect candidates on the entire Democratic ticket, not just to elect Gov. Knowles. Second, the portion of its activities that the ADP carried out exclusively to benefit the Knowles campaign were properly allocated to, and accepted or paid by, the Knowles campaign.

1. Tony Knowles was not the sole beneficiary of the ADP's efforts.

The complainant alleges that the ADP's efforts during the 2004 election cycle were in-kind contributions to the Knowles campaign because they were "intended to benefit Mr. Knowles." Compl. at 1. To support this conclusion, he points to public statements made by both the ADP and the Knowles campaign emphasizing the ADP's activities in support of Tony Knowles's candidacy. These statements do not prove the complainant's argument, however, and he has no further evidence to support his claim.

First, that the ADP solicited students to work for the party by inviting them to "elect Tony Knowles" does not demonstrate that the ADP's activities were carried out exclusively for Gov. Knowles's benefit. Political party committees frequently use the most recognized candidates at the top of their tickets as a "draw" for a host of purposes, including fundraising and recruitment of volunteers. For example, during the 2004 cycle the Ohio Republican Party stated on its volunteer recruitment webpage that "We need your help to win Ohio for President Bush in 2004!" See Exh. A. No one has claimed, however, that the Ohio Republican Party in 2004 existed solely to elect President Bush, or that all of its activities were in-kind contributions to Bush-Cheney 2004, Inc. The ADP's solicitation of students to work for the party by inviting them to "elect Tony Knowles" is no different.

Second, neither the Knowles campaign's representations of the ADP's offices as "Knowles Offices," nor its description of ADP's canvassers as working to "spread Tony's message," Compl. at 2, constitute evidence that the ADP operated solely for the Knowles campaign's benefit. As the Knowles campaign did pay a share of the ADP's offices and of staff salaries, it was not inappropriate for it to refer to the ADP's offices as "Knowles Offices," or to a member of the ADP's staff as a Knowles worker. Moreover, to attract momentum and constituent support, the Knowles campaign often emphasized in its press those activities of the ADP that directly supported Gov. Knowles. This does not mean that, in fact, any of the ADP's activities were carried out exclusively for the Knowles campaign's benefit. In fact, as the complainant himself concedes, three federal elections were on the ballot in Alaska. Compl. at 1. In addition, a number of Democrats appeared on the ballots in state and local elections throughout the state. The ADP undertook its program to benefit all of these candidates.

2. The costs of the ADP's offices and staff were appropriately allocated between the Knowles campaign and the ADP.

The complainant's claim that the ADP's expenditures for office and staff were funded entirely by the ADP is also factually incorrect. The Knowles campaign accepted a portion as Section 441a(d) coordinated party expenditures or in-kind contributions subject to limits, and paid for the remainder of its share of these expenses itself. No unlawful in-kind contributions resulted.

Pursuant to a calculation the ADP made early in the election cycle, the ADP allocated twenty percent of its field program's administrative expenses throughout the cycle – including rent and staff salaries – to the Knowles campaign. See 11 C.F.R. § 106.1. In accordance with the ADP's allocation calculations, the Knowles campaign properly accepted these expenditures as Section 441a(d) coordinated party expenditures to benefit the Knowles campaign or in-kind contributions, or reimbursed the ADP for these expenses.¹ We have attached as Exhibit B to this response copies of representative pages of the Knowles campaign's FEC reports reflecting these transactions.

B. The Knowles Campaign Did Not "Coordinate" with the DSCC with Respect to Any of the DSCC's Independent Expenditure Advertisements.

The complainant alleges that a number of television ads broadcast by the DSCC were "coordinated" with the Knowles campaign and resulted in in-kind contributions to the Knowles campaign.

The Knowles campaign has reviewed the DSCC's legal response to the complaint in this issue and joins in its argument in all material respects. As is indicated in that response, the Knowles campaign did not have any communications with the DSCC or any of its agents concerning any of the DSCC's independent expenditure advertisements.

¹ The Knowles campaign understands that the ADP established its allocation calculation based on a good faith estimate of the amount of time its field operation would devote to activities in direct support of Gov. Knowles's candidacy.

The Knowles campaign does wish to supplement the DSCC's response by emphasizing that a number of the complainant's assertions are blatantly incorrect. First, as the DSCC clarifies in its response, the "Alaska Story" ad to which the complainant refers was actually paid for, produced, and broadcast by the Knowles campaign. Second, although the Knowles campaign did comment publicly on one DSCC advertisement, as is explained in the DSCC's response this does not constitute "material involvement" sufficient to meet the "conduct" standard of Section 109.21.

Third, the complainant's assertion that Alan Blevis's participation in a radio ad for the Knowles campaign and a DSCC television advertisement constitutes evidence of coordination is simply false. The Knowles campaign never used Mr. Blevis's voice talent in any of its ads. Even if it had, as the DSCC indicates, none of the elements of coordination under a "common vendor" theory would have been met as a result.²

Fourth, the complainant incorrectly asserts that a press release disseminated by the ADP constitutes "proof of illegal coordination" between the ADP and the Knowles campaign. Compl. at 5. Email is explicitly excluded from the definition of "public communication," see 11 C.F.R. §§ 100.26, 100.27, and therefore an email communication from a party committee cannot, by definition, be a "coordinated communication" under the law. See 11 C.F.R. §§ 109.21, 109.20, 109.37. Even if it could, emails generally do not result in any incremental cost, and no contribution would result. Moreover, as is indicated by the disclaimer on the press release the ADP considered any costs to have been paid for by the Knowles campaign as part of its share of the ADP's administrative expenses.

Finally, the complainant claims that Gov. Knowles's attendance at meetings at the DSCC, and his use of DSCC facilities and resources, are evidence of coordination.

² Moreover, even if all three of these elements were present, the complainant still could not show that the Knowles campaign accepted an in-kind contribution or coordinated party expenditure as a result. The Commission's rules explicitly provide that a campaign benefiting from an expenditure that would otherwise be considered a "coordinated communication" does not receive an in-kind contribution, and need not report an expenditure, based on the "common vendor" element of the "conduct" standard unless the campaign itself meets the "conduct" standard in one of three other ways (e.g., by requesting or suggesting the ad, or by its material involvement in it, or by participating in substantial discussions about it). 11 C.F.R. § 109.21(b)(2). This ensures that a campaign is not unfairly penalized by the unauthorized acts of an employee or consultant.

However, the Knowles campaign understood that the DSCC incurred no incremental costs in these instances, and accordingly no contribution or expenditure resulted. When the DSCC did incur expenses to support the Knowles campaign, these expenses were properly reported as Section 441a(d) coordinated party expenditures or were paid for by the Knowles campaign. We have attached as Exhibit C to this response copies of representative pages of the Knowles campaign's FEC reports reflecting these payments.

C. The Complainant's Statement that Leslie Ridle Contributed $600 to the DSCC is False.

The complainant asserts that Leslie Ridle made a personal contribution to the DSCC in the amount of $600. Compl. at 3. This statement is entirely false. Ms. Ridle has made two contributions to the DSCC: one $35 contribution in 1993 and another $35 contribution in 2004. Even if the statement were true, whether Ms. Ridle made a personal contribution to the DSCC, or to any other federally-registered entity, is entirely irrelevant to this matter. Nothing in the Commission's "coordination" regulations suggests that an individual's personal contributions, especially in such a small amount, bear at all on the existence of coordination.

The Commission should not permit the complainant to abuse its enforcement process by filing a complaint comprised of such false information. The Knowles campaign notes that all statements included in a complaint filed with the Commission are subject to federal statutes governing perjury and to 18 U.S.C. § 1001. It urges the Commission to take all legal and appropriate action against the complainant for such a blatant misuse of Commission resources.

December 9, 2004

CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed above, the Commission should find no reason to believe that Respondents violated the Act in this matter, and should dismiss the complaint without delay.

Very truly yours,

Marc E. Elias
